

Economic Approaches to Law series

Series editors: Richard A. Posner, Judge, United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit and University of Chicago Law School and Francesco Parisi, George Mason University, US and University of Milan, Italy

This major series is an essential reference source in the area of law and economics, forming a comprehensive guide to the subject organised by theme. Each volume is edited by a distinguished specialist in the field and provides an authoritative overview of the respective topic, comprising a careful selection of the most seminal and ground-breaking articles, and prefaced by a new, over-arching introduction. The series outlines economic approaches to a broad range of legal sub-disciplines, from corporate law and constitutional law through to family law and environmental law, as well as examining issues such as the methodology of law and economics, behavioral law and economics, and law and economic development.

First title in series

Law and Economic Development

Edited by Hans-Bernd Schäfer, University of Hamburg, Germany and Angara V. Raja, University of Hyderabad, India

'This is an impressive collection of articles on a subject of vital importance for the welfare of the world's poor.'

– Deepak Lal, University of California, Los Angeles, US

This authoritative collection demonstrates the increasing application of the law and economics methodology to the problems of developing countries. At the foundation of this application is the institutional approach to economic development, which emphasises the success or failure of key institutions in facilitating development. The impact on future research will be far-reaching and is expected to dominate the debate on development issues for a long time to come.
